Task 4: Read the passage and decide whether the statements that follow are True or False.

There are numerous types of music, each with its own distinct sound and style. Among the most popular types of music are:

- Classical music is frequently performed in concert halls or opera houses. It can be really beautiful and touching, but it can also be difficult to listen to.
- Jazz is often played in nightclubs and pubs. It can be energetic and entertaining, but it can also be elegant.
- Pop music is commonly heard on the radio or in stores. Although it might be catchy and simple to listen to, it can also be uninteresting and pointless.
- Rock music is often played at concerts or on the radio. It can be loud and enthusiastic, however, it can also be hostile and aggressive.

The examples above are just a few of the many different forms of music that exist. So people can easily select music styles that match their thoughts and emotions.
